classroom manipulatives. If businesses jump in on this idea by placing Cap Catchers™ in their offices and around their buildings, they will be helping the environment and their community in numerous ways!

Of course this concept also helps the sea life by stopping the caps from entering their environment in the first place.

Really, the benefits of cap collecting are truly endless.

Do you need grant money for this? How much? How do people get that to you?

Treasures 4 Teachers is going a step further with "catching caps." The Red Hat Society has taken on the task of collecting the caps and assembling them in educational learning kits called "Caps for Kids™" — for teachers, parents and other educators to use. We will ask for $1 donation per kit to go back into the non-profit organization to assist us in raising awareness of the importance of "catching caps" to be reused for so many fun and educational purposes.

The kits will be available through Treasures 4 Teachers. In addition, Treasures 4 Teachers is a donation location where the caps can be collected. Please call Barbara Blalock for more information at (480) 751-1122.

Final thoughts?

This famous quote from Jean Piaget (1896-1980), who was one of the most influential researchers in the area of developmental psychology during the 20th century, is one that embraces the "Cap Catcher" concept: "The goal of education is to create possibilities for children to invent and discover."

Now go out and "Catch some caps!"
